History

Numerous archaeological findings and historical documents only prove that the history of migration by the River Prosna is thousands years old. Defensive ramparts of a settlement coming from the times of the Łużyce Culture are located within the forks of the Rivers Niesób and Prosna.

Ancient amber route used to run through the Wieruszów Land. Legend says that Saint Wojciech travelled through this land over a thousand years ago on his missionary journey to Prussia and the present Saint Wojciech Sanctuary in Cieszęcin is situated on the trail of his travel.

Saint Wojciech Sanctuary in Cieszęcin

Ptolemy in his work „Geography” (2nd cent. A.D.) when plotting the amber route he marked two villages on the Prosna River line: Arsonium and Calisia. The first was probably settlement, from which the later Wieruszów originated. Unlike other towns, Wieruszów was always a private town of nobility. The House of Knight Wieruszów founded it. The year 1368 is the settlement's location date.

In 1401, Bernard Wierusz funded a monastery in Wieruszów to the Paulites.

The future Polish king, Henryk Walezy, stayed at the Wieruszów's castle in 1573.

One of the main Lutheran Protestant church existed here in the 16th century. In the second half of this century, Wieruszów became a centre of the Reformation. Commune of the Czech brothers was created here by the end of the 16th century. The city has developed as a centre of craftsmanship, particularly cloth manufacture and brewing as well as trade. There used to be a customs chamber situated by the border with Silesia. Wieruszów, damaged during the Swedish invasion and later as a result of the great fire in 1696 and warfare at the beginning of the 18th century, considerably declined.

Father Augustyn Kordecki, the heroic defender of Jasna Góra during the "Swedish deluge", died in 1673 in the monastery of the Paulites.

In 1815, according to decision passed during the Vienna Congress, the border established on the River Prosna and Niesób divided the city into two parts. The western part, the so-called Podzamcze, was incorporated into the Prussian Annexation and the eastern part into the Polish Kingdom.

In 1870, Wieruszów lost its civic rights and forty years later gained them again.

The city was considerably damaged during the First and the Second World War. In 1919, the castle of Wieruszów was demolished. In 1945, the urban development was damaged in over 60% and the population dropped to just 2000.

After the war, the city started to slowly, but systematically developing. Its dynamic growth started since 1955, when it gained a status of a powiat after the new administrative division.

In 1972, Wieruszów received a title of the national vice-champion of thriftiness. In 1973, the then Cracow Metropolitan Cardinal Karol Wojtyła, the later Pope John Paul II, stayed at the church of the Paulites and participated at the celebrations of the 300th death anniversary of the Father Augustyn Kordecki. In 2000, the City Council granted the Pope John Paul II a title of Honourable Citizen of the City of Wieruszów.

As a result of the administrative reform in 1999, Wieruszów was granted a city status – the seat of the Wieruszów Powiat. Since then, many new institutes were created, such as: Tax Office, Branch of Social Security (ZUS), Branch of Farmer's Social Security (KRUS), Powiat Police Office, Powiat Fire Brigade Headquarters, Powiat Office of Agricultural Restructuring and Modernisation Agency and Powiat Sanitary and Epidemiological Station. Since that moment, a new period in development of the city and the Wieruszów Land started.

Historic monuments

The history of Wieruszów, since 1401, is associated with the presence of the Paulites' Monastery. It was then when the squire of Wieruszów Bernard Wierusz funded a first wooden and richly decorated monastery and a church. These buildings burnt during the city's fire in 1612. The presently existing, third in the history of the monastery, Pentecost and Visitation of the Holiest Virgin Mary church and a monastery, were built in 1676. According to the Decree of the Kalisz Bishop, Stanisław Napierała, the church of the Paulites, became Diocese Sanctuary of the Merciful Jesus of Five Wounds in 2009. The church and the monastery are bricked and erected in the baroque style. The graceful painting of the Jesus of Five Wounds, also called the painting of Divine Mercy, is the most valuable monument of the temple. This is the only historic monument from the Gothic period in Wieruszów. The church features painting of the Czystochowa Virgin Mary painted on board, which is a faithful copy of the painting from Jasna Góra. Stellas situated on both sides of the presbytery give splendour to the great altar. Over the last years, the monastery has been repaired and restored.

The city centre, situated on the right bank of the River Prosna, makes up a broad rectangular Market Square, which is under restorer's protection. Settlement of the Łużyce Culture in Kuźnica Skakawska is an interesting monument, which comes from the 5th Bronze Age (900-700 years B.C.). Next to it there is a larch Saint Roch church from 1746, shingle roofing, a pilgrimage place, converted as a vote of cholera plague vanish.

The commune is situated on the ancient „Amber Route”, which was used by Saint Wojciech on his way to Prussia in 997. He stopped in Cieszęcin, where he preached the Gospel to the local people. Nowadays there is a historic wooden church from 1789 – Diocese Saint Wojciech Sanctuary with the relics of the patron saint. It is also worth visiting a bricked neo-Romanesque one-nave Saint Archangel Michael parish church in Wyszánów from 1842 with a late-gothic sculpture featuring Saint Barbara from around 1510.

Wieruszów - Podzamcze features a historic water tower established in 1872, which provided service to steam engines until the electrification of the railway route. It also features a historic Evangelical church built in 1888 for the incoming people from Germany.
